PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 1, 1833.

THE PENNSYLVANIA ADVOCATE, AND PITTSBURGH DAILY ADVERTISER—Made its appearance this morning, on a large sheet, neatly printed.—The address of the new editor, to his readers, explanatory of the course which he means to pursue, is entirely satisfactory, and is well written.

A FEW FACTS TO BE REMEMBERED.—Pennsylvania twice aided to elect General Jackson to the presidency; and, in return, General Jackson has twice insulted Pennsylvania by discarding her sons from the Treasury Department.

General Jackson's administration is called the Democratic administration; and, during its continuance, William Duane, jr., the son of an old democrat, and himself an old democrat, is dismissed from the Treasury Department, and Roger B. Taney, an old Federalist, appointed in his stead!!!

Roger B. Taney, an old Federalist, is selected as the tool of the Kitchen Cabinet, to do their dirty work. Always commend us to an apostate Federalist, when any political rascality is to be attended to.

ONE STARTLING FACT FOR THE CONSIDERATION OF PHILADELPHIANS.—A gentleman who resides in the valley of the Scioto, Ohio, and who is probably the oldest and the most extensive merchant in the central part of that State, arrived here, a few days since, on his return from a visit to Philadelphia and New York. He always, from the year 1798 until two or three years ago, made his purchases in Philadelphia, and, during that time, had purchased and paid for upwards of two millions of dollars' worth of goods, for his own establishment and others with which he is connected. His partialities are entirely in favor of Philadelphia; but circumstances have induced him to transfer his custom to New York, and during the last two or three years he has made his purchases in the latter city. These circumstances are the facility and cheapness with which he gets his goods delivered by the New York and Ohio Canal.—His goods are delivered to him, low down on the Scioto, in sixteen days from New York, at an expense of $1,87 1-2 per hundred. The loss of a few such customers will be severely felt in Philadelphia; and, unfortunately, not a few only, but many, will desert her, unless something is done to counteract the designs of the enterprizing New Yorkers.

A very intelligent and shrewd friend just remarked to us, "let us have a connection with the Ohio Canal, immediately—and we will be able to deliver goods in any part of Ohio, or in the Western States, cheaper and quicker than New York possibly can." He assures us, that as soon as the rail road over the mountains is completed, we will be able to send goods from Philadelphia to Cincinnati, in ten days, at an expense of one dollar and a half per hundred.

ENCOURAGING.—One of our most shrewd and intelligent manufacturers of iron, who is well acquainted with business generally here, has recently been traveling in the country along Lake Erie, and returned only a few days ago. Yesterday, he handed to us the following list of articles, which he declared could be furnished from Pittsburgh, at any point from Buffalo to Chicago, cheaper than from New York, if we had a canal either to Erie or Cleveland.

Iron,	Nails,
Comomn Steel,	Chains,
Shovels,	Spades,
Picks,	Mattocks,
Hoes,	Axes,
Mill Screws,	Window Glass,
Flint and common Glassware,	Bottles, &c. Steam Engines,
Anchors,	Chain Cables,

Vices and Screws.

The former senior editor of the Pennsylvania Advocate, who, after one short year's experience, was eructated with disgust from our city, has thought proper to discharge a Parthian arrow at us in the Advocate of this morning. He declares that while here, he had to "contend with open hostility on the part of some editors, and with undisguised jealousy on the part of another;" meaning, undoubtedly, the editor of the Gazette. This assertion is altogether false and unfounded, and that editor knows it to be so.

When Mr. Wilson came here first, it is true, that from our knowledge of the paper which he conducted in Steubenville, we held him in low estimation. But, as he was brought here for a purpose to which we were favorable, we were willing to give him fair play: it may be, perhaps, that we were the more willing to give him such a trial, from the thorough conviction we felt, that the people of Pittsburgh would know him and loathe him in less than one year. (In this expectation we have not been disappointed.)—We therefore gave his paper a favorable notice at its first appearance, and when he brought to us his miserable affidavit, in relation to the draft, we agreed to publish it; nay, to show still more clearly the absence of all jealousy or ill will towards him, we united with two very respectable and intelligent gentlemen, who happened to be in our office, in urging him not to publish such a production. We united with the gentleman in assuring him that it would do more harm than good. We all assured him that there was so much indirection in his affidavit, that suspicion would be excited, although the transaction were perfectly fair and honest. He persisted, however, in urging its publication, and we published it.

Nothing illnatured took place between us, until we had occasion to travel to Harrisburg, in February last, almost six months after his first appearance here, and then he made an attack upon us.—From that time, frequent ill natured passages have taken place between us, in all of which he was the aggressor. If he has frequently made statements that were false, and we have been successful in exposing their falsity, it certainly is no evidence of jealousy on our part.—We are, however, not at all surprized, to find the "pupil of Bache" sore under the final result of our collisions. We trust that, as he has located himself, permanently, in another State, our controversies will cease.

For the Gazette.

THE THORN BUSH.

As a swan, gleaming white,
In beautiful sun light,
The soul of a poet flew down a vale,
Hunting for a flower,
In Nature's bower,
That, striking and new, might bloom in a tale.

The rose's red hue!
Heavens, it wont do!
From Sappho to Moore, the rhymers have nipt it:
The white clover peeps,
And pure honey weeps;
But the bee of Thompson has stoop'd and sipt it.

With a deep drawn sigh,
He was hurrying by,
When a lonely Thorn Bush caught his glance;
Right manfully he looked
At the twig so crooked—
Eftsoons he was flung in a Poet's trance.

'As I've seen a lad,
With a pen knife blade,
Carve a like branch into a beautiful rod—
'So,' cried the ghost,

JACKSON'S LETTER—CONCLUDED.

On ascertaining these facts, and perceiving that expenditures of a similar character were still continued, the Government Directors a few weeks ago offered a resolution in the Board, calling for a specific account of these expenditures, showing the objects to which they had been applied and the persons to whom the money had been paid.—This reasonable proposition was voted down.

They also offered a resolution rescinding the resolutions of November, 1830, and March, 1831.—This also was rejected.

Not content with thus refusing to recall the obnoxious power or even to require such an account of the expenditure as would show whether the money of the Bank had in fact been applied to the objects contemplated by those resolutions, as obnoxious as they were, the Board renewed the power already conferred and even enjoined renewed attention to its exercise, by adopting the following in lieu of the propositions submitted by the Government Directors, viz:

"Resolved, That the Board have confidence in the wisdom and integrity of the President and in the propriety of the resolutions of 30th November, 1830, and 11th March, 1831, and entertain a full conviction of the necessity of a renewed attention to the object of those resolutions, and that the President be authorized and requested to continue his exertions for the promotion of said object."

Taken in connection with the nature of the expenditures heretofore made, as recently disclosed, which the Board not only tolerate but approve, this resolution puts the funds of the Bank at the disposition of the President for the purpose of employing the whole press of the country in the service of the Bank, to hire writers and newspapers, and to pay out such sums as he pleases, to what persons and for what services he pleases, without the responsibility of rendering any specific account. The Bank is thus converted into a vast electioneering engine with means to embroil the country in deadly feuds, and, under cover of expenditures, in themselves improper, extend its corruption through all the ramifications of society.

Some of the items for which accounts have been rendered, show the construction which has been given to the resolutions, and the way in which the power it confers has been exerted. The money has not been expended merely in the publication and distribution of speeches, reports of committees, or articles written for the purpose of showing the constitutionality or usefulness of the bank. But publications have been prepared, and extensively circulated, containing the grossest invectives against the officers of the government: and the money which belongs to the stockholders and the public, has been frequently applied in efforts to degrade, in public estimation, those who are supposed to be instrumental in resisting the wishes of this grasping and dangerous institution. As the President of the Bank has not been required to settle his accounts, no one but himself yet knows how much more than the sum already mentioned may have been squandered, and for which a credit may hereafter be claimed in his account under this most extraordinary resolution.—With these facts before us, can we be surprised at the torrent of abuse incessantly poured out against all who are supposed to stand in the way of the cupidity or ambition of the bank of the United States? Can we be surprised at sudden and unexpected changes of opinion in favor of an institution which has millions to lavish, and avows its determination not to spare its means when they are necessary to accomplish its purposes? The refusal to render an account of the manner in which a part of the money expended has been applied, gives just cause for the suspicion that it has been used for purposes which it is not deemed prudent to expose to the eyes of an intelligent and virtuous people. Those who act justly do not shun the light, nor do they refuse explanations when the propriety of their conduct is brought into question.

With these facts before him, in an official report from the Government Directors, the President would feel that he was not only responsible for all the abuses and corruptions the Bank has committed, or may commit, but almost an accomplice in a conspiracy against that government which he has sworn honestly to administer, if he did not take every step with his constitutional and legal power, likely to be efficient, in putting an end to these enormities. If it be possible, within the scope of human affairs, to find a reason for removing the government deposits, and leaving the bank to its own resource for the means of effecting its criminal designs, we have it here. Was it expected when the moneys of the United States were directed to be placed in that bank, that they would be put under the control of one man, empowered to spend millions without rendering a voucher, or specifying the object? Can they be considered safe with the evidence before us, that tens of thousands have been spent for highly improper, if not corrupt purposes, and that the same motive may lead to the expenditure of hundreds of thousands, and even millions more? And can we justify ourselves to the people by longer lending to it the money and power of the government, to be employed for such purposes?

It has been alleged by some, as an objection to the removal of the deposits, that the Bank has the power, and in that event will have the disposition, to destroy the State Banks employed by the Government, and bring distress upon the country.—It has been the fortune of the President to encounter dangers which were represented as equally alarming, and he has seen them vanish before resolution and energy. Pictures equally appalling were paraded before him when this Bank came to demand a new charter. But what was the result? Has the country been ruined, or even distressed? Was it ever more prosperous than since that act? The President verily believes the Bank has not the power to produce the calamities its friends threaten. The funds of the Government will not be annihilated by being transferred. They will immediately be issued for the benefit of trade, and if the Bank of the United States curtails its loans, the State Banks, strengthened by the public deposits, will extend theirs. What comes in through one Bank will go out through others, and the equilibrium will be preserved. Should the Bank, for the mere purpose of producing distress, press its debtors more heavily than some of them can bear, the consequences will recoil upon itself, and, in the attempts to embarrass the country, it will only bring loss and ruin upon the holders of its own stock. But if the President believed the Bank possessed all the power which has been attributed to it, his determination would only be rendered the more inflexible. If, indeed, this corporation now holds in its hands the happiness and prosperity of the American people, it is high time to take the alarm. If the despotism be already upon us, and our only safety is in the mercy of the despot, recent developments, in relation to his designs, and the means he employs, show how necessary it is to shake it off. The struggle can never come with less distress to the people, or under more favorable auspices than at the present moment.

All doubts as to the willingness of the State Banks to undertake the service of Government, to the same extent, and on the same terms, as it is now performed by the Bank of the United States, is put to rest by the report of the agent recently employed to collect information; and from that willingness, their own safety in the operation may be confidently inferred. Knowing their own resources better than they can be known by others, it is not to be supposed that they would be willing to place themselves in a situation which they cannot occupy without danger of annihilation or embarrassment. The only consideration applies to the safety of the public funds, if deposited in those institutions. And when it is seen that the directors of many of them are not only willing to pledge the character and capital of the corporations in giving success to this measure, but also their own property and reputation, we cannot doubt that they at least believe the public deposits would be safe in their management. The President thinks that these facts and circumstances afford as strong a guarantee as can be had in human affairs, for the safety of the public funds, and the practicability of a new system of collection and disbursement through the agency of the State Banks.

From all these considerations, the President thinks that the State Banks ought immediately to be employed in the collection and disbursement of the public revenue and the funds now in the Bank of the United States, drawn out with all convenient dispatch. The safety of the public moneys, if deposited in the State Banks, must be secured beyond all reasonable doubts; but the extent and nature of the security, in addition to their capital, if any be deemed necessary, is a subject of detail to which the Treasury Department will undoubtedly give its anxious attention. The Banks to be employed must remit the moneys of the Government without charge, as the Bank of the United States now does; must render all the services which that Bank now performs; must keep the Government advised of their situation by periodical returns; in fine, in any arrangements with the State Banks, the Government must not, in any respect, be placed on a worse footing than it now is. The President is happy to perceive, by the report of the agent, that the Banks which he has consulted have, in general, consented to perform the service on these terms, and that those in New York have further agreed to make payments in London without other charge than the mere cost of the bills of exchange.

It should also be enjoined upon any Banks which may be employed, that it will be expected of them to facilitate domestic exchanges for the benefit of commerce; to grant all reasonable facilities to the payers of revenue; to exercise the utmost liberality towards the other State Banks; and do nothing uselessly to embarrass the Bank of the United States.

As one of the most serious objections to the Bank of the United States is, the power which it concentrates, care must be taken, in finding other agents for the service of the Treasury, not to raise up another more equally formidable. Although it would probably be impossible to produce such a result by any organization of the State Banks which could be devised—yet it is desirable to avoid even the appearance. To this end it would be expedient to assume no more power over them, and interfere no more in their affairs, than might be absolutely necessary to the security of the public deposit, and the faithful performance of their duties as agents of the Treasury. Any interference by them in the political contests of the country, with the view to influence elections, ought, in the opinion of the President, to be followed by an immediate discharge from the public service.

It is the desire of the President that the control of the Banks and the currency shall, as far as possible, be entirely separated from the political power of the country, as well as wrested from an institution which has already attempted to subject the Government to its will. In his opinion the action of the General Government upon this subject, ought not to extend beyond the grant in the Constitution, which only authorizes Congress "to coin money and regulate the value thereof;" all else belongs to the States and the people, and must be regulated by public opinion and the interests of trade.

In conclusion, the President must be permitted to remark that he looks upon the pending question as of higher consideration than the mere transfer of a sum of money from one Bank to another. Its decision may affect the character of our Government for ages to come. Should the Bank be suffered longer to use the public moneys, in the accomplishment of its purposes, with the proofs of its faithlessness and corruption before our eyes, the patriotic among our citizens will despair of success in struggling against its power; and we shall be responsible for entailing it upon our country forever. Viewing it as a question of transcendant importance, both in the principles and consequences it involves, the President could not, in justice to the responsibility which he owes to the country, refrain from pressing upon the Secretary of the Treasury his view of the considerations which impel to immediate action. Upon him has been devolved by the Constitution and the suffrages of the American people, the duty of superintending the operation of the Executive Departments of the Government, and seeing the laws are faithfully executed. In the performance of this high trust, it is his undoubted right to express to those whom the laws and his own choice have made his associates in the administration of the Government, his opinion of their duties under circumstances as they arise. It is this right which he now exercises. Far be it from him to expect or require, that any member of the cabinet should, at his request, order, or dictation, do any act which he believes unlawful, or in his conscience condemns. From them, and from his fellow citizens in general, he desires only that aid and support which their reason approves and their conscience sanctions.

In the remarks he has made on this all important question, he trusts the Secretary of the Treasury will see only the frank and respectful declarations of the opinions which the President has formed on a measure of great national interest, deeply affecting the character and usefulness of his administration; and not a spirit of dictation, which the President would be as careful to avoid, as ready to resist. Happy will he be, if the facts now disclosed produce uniformity of opinion and unity of action among the members of the administration.

The President again repeats that he begs his Cabinet to consider the proposed measure as his own, in the support of which he shall require no one of them to make a sacrifice of opinion or principle. Its responsibility has been assumed, after the most mature deliberation and reflection, as necessary to preserve the morals of the people, the freedom of the press, and the purity of the elective franchise, without which all will unite in saying that the blood and treasure expended by our forefathers, in the establishment of our happy system of Government, will have been vain and fruitless. Under these convictions, he feels that a measure so important to the American people cannot be commenced too soon; and he, therefore, names the first day of October next as a period proper for the change of the deposits, or sooner, provided the necessary arrangements with the State Banks can be made. ANDREW JACKSON.

From the National Gazette.

Last year was a year of unusual profusion of counterfeit money on the Bank—and, at the same time, the Kitchen Cabinet concerted a run upon the Western Branches. Both were defeated—the counterfeiters being convicted and punished—the Kitchen Cabinet only detected. So, too, more recently. After great labor the most dangerous gang ever in the United States were arrested, condemned, and actually in prison, where they were sentenced to remain ten or fifteen years. By some fault of the United States' officer, who had them in custody, they all escaped. One of them, however, Reuben Moses, the chief of the gang, was retaken. He had not been long in his cell—when, without consulting the Bank, the United States' Marshal, or the United States' Court—and in defiance of a protest by the District Attorney against his enlargement, this man received a full pardon from the Kitchen Cabinet, and had not been at liberty more than two or three weeks when he was again arrested for the same offence.

The Bank adopted, as we learn, this measure of precaution against the counterfeiters. On the 22d October, 1830, the following resolution was passed by the Board of Directors.

"Resolved, That the President of this Bank be authorized to take whatever measures he may think proper for the discovery and arrest of counterfeiters of its notes and drafts, and to incur such expenses, from time to time, in effecting that object, as he may deem useful or necessary."

With the same view, as stated in the Manifesto, the following resolution was adopted by the Board. in relation to the Kitchen Cabinet, on the 11th of March, 1831.

"Resolved, That the President is hereby authorized to cause to be prepared and circulated such documents and papers as may communicate to the people information in regard to the nature and operations of the Bank."

Under these resolutions, whenever the presiding officer of the Bank heard that an emission of counterfeit money was preparing, he endeavored to suppress it by the arrest of the guilty, and prosecuted them in courts, employing lawyers, marshals, constables, and all other instruments of arrest or prevention.

So, in like manner, whenever the Kitchen Cabinet sent a message to Congress, a report, a manifesto, or any other document, containing, of course, every sort of calumny and falsehood about the Bank, it became necessary to counteract the effect of them by explanations clearly made, plainly proved, and widely circulated. For this purpose, the ordinary, and, indeed, the only channels of communication with the community, were to be employed:—these explanations were prepared, printed, and circulated, and the expenses duly and honestly paid by the Bank.

The Kitchen Cabinet cost more than the counterfeiters—because, having the whole patronage of the government at their disposal—having all the offices, and especially the post office, at their command—they have the power to manufacture and circulate their counterfeits more readily than the humbler worthies of the copper plate. Accordingly, the accounts of the Bank show a proportionate expense upon these respective gangs.

It appears, we are told, that the counterfeiters have cost upwards of ten thousand dollars. The total expenses of printing for the other purpose, is $58,892 25; but deducting the payments for multiplying copies of the books and documents relative to the Bank, of which Congress had purchased or ordered extra copies, the whole expense of preparing and circulating miscellaneous matters has amounted, for the years 1830, 1, 2, and 3, to $38,462 51—or about $9,815 a year—being mainly for diffusing the speeches of members of Congress on the Bank and Veto questions. It is to be regretted that the Kitchen Cabinet could not be obliged, like other culprits, to pay the expenses of their own conviction; but the Bank must content itself with the satisfaction of knowing the success which has attended the resolution. It has cost 10,000 dollars to put nearly all the counterfeiters into the Penitentiary. It has cost $38,462 51, to make every honest man justly appreciate the Kitchen Cabinet ane its works. Such a service abundantly repays the expense incurred in it. That sum only was used, because that sum was sufficient—but if it had not been—if instead of $38,000—one hundred thousand or two hundred thousand had been necessary, they ought to have been expended. The purpose was to vindicate the Bank against these assailants, whatever it might cost.

So little idea of secrecy was there in all this—so little notion that in the treatment of the Counterfeiters or the Kitchen Cabinet, there was any thing to conceal, that the resolution was adopted at a full meeting of the Board—the only two Government Directors, who then frequented the Board, being present, and assenting to it. The expenses incurred were all recorded in a book, to which every Director has access, the vouchers passing regularly through Committees of the Board. The book was in the hands of the Committee of Investigation, of 1832, and that Committee noted these very expenses. Nay, so entirely was this resolution considered a matter of course, that, lately, when, as the Manifesto states, the Government Directors offered a resolution to rescind the Resolution, the Board calmly reaffimed it, and directed the presiding officer "to continue his exertions for the promotion of said object," and so he ought whatever it may cost.

The Counterfeiters complain of the rigor with which the Bank pursues them; the Kitchen Cabinet too complain in like manner, that the Bank will not let them circulate unanswered falsehoods—and they publish a whining manifesto, complaining that the Bank will answer the calumnies they employ. This is what they call interfering in politics. They first put forth falsehoods of every kind, traducing the Bank, and every body connected with it. If these were contemned in silence they would be deemed to be admitted—when they are contradicted—when measures are taken to circulate among the people true information—then the Bank interferes with politics. Now, the Bank interferes in politics, exactly as it interferes with counterfeits. While the gang of counterfeiters continue their trade, they should be hunted to their dens.

While the Kitchen Cabinet persevere in their warfare, they too ought to be watched, and answered and exposed, whether it costs much or little money. The benefit to the country will be more than an equivalent for any expense.

This is what is meant by "secret service money"—the money by which the frauds of the Kitchen Cabinet are exposed through the press to the indignation of honest men.

Ravages of the Cholera in the city of Mexico.—We have been favored with the following extract of a letter from a resident at Mexico:

CITY OF MEXICO, 24th August, 1833.

"Business has never been so inactive as at the present moment, on account of the civil war which exists, as well as on account of the ravages made by the Cholera for 15 days past. The poorer classes have been the principal sufferers. Of these, about 7,000 have died. Within the 3 last days, 900 or 1,200 persons have fallen victims to the disease every day. Few of the better classes have hitherto been attacked, hardly 20 of them have fallen. It is hoped that the disease is now at its height.—N. Y. Courier.

The Cabinet.—Rumors relative to the new appointment to be made in the Cabinet are beginning already to get afloat. One account says that Mr. Barry is to be made Attorney General!! and either Colonel Drayton or Colonel R. M. Johnston called to preside over the Post Office. Another and a more probable rumor is, that Mr. Forsyth, of Ga., is to be appointed Attorney General.—Alex. Gaz.

A Microscope is now exhibiting in New Bond street, London, which magnifies up to 2,500,000 times, so that in looking through it a flea is said to appear "as large as the late elephant Chunie!"

M. de Iturbide, eldest son of the late ex-Emperor of Mexico, has arrived in London, in the capacity of Secretary of Legation to the Mexican Embassy.

Expression of Public Sentiment.—Mr. Duane, late Secretary of the Treasury, returned to this city on Wednesday evening last. It is understood that a public dinner will be given to this firm and honest citizen, without distinction of parties.

There have been times when virtue like Mr. Duane has evinced, was common. Men beheld its exercise with no emotion. Now its rarity gives it distinction—it shines out like a ray of pure light, and gathers beauty from the surrounding darkness. We strike hands with Mr. Duane, as we do with all citizens who honor the laws, and who dare to be free.—Com. Herald.

Post Office Delinquency.

ON the 19th of March last, I wrote a letter to Lewis Clapier, Esq. of Philadelphia, which I placed in the Post Office at Saegerstown on the same day, and by information lately received from Mr. Clapier, I find the letter has not reached him. Enclosed with the letter, in a strong envelop, was a patent for donation lot No. 6, containing three hundred acres of land, situate in the first district, now Beaver county, granted by the State of Pennsylvania to Major George Tudor, for services in the revolutionary war, and dated the 5th day of October, 1787. On the back of the patent is a transfer of same by Major Tudor to Walter Stewart, dated the 14th day of February, 1792, and both recorded in the Recorder's office, in Allegheny county, in Deed Book F, page 129, &c. The whole package was directed to Lewis Clapier, Esq., Philadelphia, and the Post Office in Saegerstown on the day first above mentioned, charged the Philadelphia Post Office with the postage thereof, amounting to one dollar twelve and a half cents. This package must have been detained, and most probably purloined, in some intermediate Post Office, and whoever has done it, has not had the honesty to forward it to its place of destination. As the patent can be of use whatever to the person into whose hands it may have fallen, but is of consequence to myself, I will give a generous reward to any one will deliver it to me, or forward it to the Post Office in Saegerstown, Crawford county, Pennsylvania, or to Lewis Clapier, Esq., in Philadelphia.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,
From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.
Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
